

Someday as a springboard to goal setting

Need Someday by Eileen Spinelli, images of careers as well as student individual pictures. Created in photostory.

Read the book to students and point out the pattern of “today” vs “someday”. Have the students write the same – setting a goal and what they need to do now in order to be what they want to be.

Students create a 3 slide photostory – title slide, someday slide and today slide. Add images to appropriate pages, narrate text.

Teacher prep:

- Locate images of careers as well as individual students.
- Create a framed paragraph for students along the lines of the book.

Lesson:

- Read book
- Have students do own writing and practice speaking
- In the lab, students create and narrate their two slides

Teacher post work:

Customize motion, render and put together into one video, burn a disc for each student or link